Diversity Council launched

An historic event took place in London on March 14th, 2001 when, under the guidance of Prof. Ismail Abdullahi, a number of organisations came together to form the Diversity Council. The three organisations that form the Diversity Council are African Caribbean Library Association (ACLA), the Asian Librarians and Advisers Group (ALAG), and Race and Class Group (RCG). SPICE and the Chinese Library Support Group have since joined DC.

The Diversity Council had extensive discussions with Bob McKee on March 15th where it was agreed that the LA would support the Council in different ways. It is expected that the Council will work towards becoming an LA Group on the same basis as other LA Groups. The LA Constitution stipulates that a new Group can be formed if 250 LA members (charter or associate) sign a petition to the LA Council which can then decide to recognise the Diversity Council as a LA Group, with all the responsibilities and privileges which LA Groups enjoy. The petition is reproduced on page 4 – please sign and return as indicated. Diversity Council is now represented at the Equal Opportunities sub-Committee of the LA.

Prof. Ismail Abdullahi from the Black Caucus of the American Library Association has been supporting the formation of the Diversity Council and has played a crucial role in bringing the three groups together. He also gave examples of the way in which the Black and other caucuses work within the ALA.

Organisations behind the Diversity Council

The African Caribbean Library Association was established in 1981 by Ann Thompson and Kassa Tsegeye. It welcomes as members, librarians, library workers, information and IT specialists, library education specialists, writers, artists, publishers, of African or Caribbean origin. It is an independent fully constituted organisation.

ACLA is committed to the full implementation of race equality principles and policies throughout librarianship. We confront racism in publications, recruitment, training, and workplace practice. We work closely with the Black community and are committed to the honest representation of the black image and black history.

Some recent developments

Quality Leaders Project for Black Library & Information Workers

At a meeting in April, the advisory group approved the proposals from Quality Leaders from Birmingham and Merton. Both pilots aim to improve public library services while developing black managers. The Management Research Centre, University of North London carried out the initial feasibility study and has provided training and evaluation of the Project. It will release its latest findings on 5 July, 2001. A newsletter will be produced for QLP by the Social Exclusion Action Planning Network. QLP is represented at the LA's Equal Opportunity sub-committee by Geoff Mills, Birmingham Libraries.

LA's Policy Advisory Group on Social Inclusion

The Library Association has recently established three Policy Groups on Social Inclusion (PAGs) – on social inclusion, regionalism and devolution, and on a national information policy. The PAGs have been set up to deal with the important cross-cutting policy issues. PAGs are meant to provide a fresh look at these policy areas. Details from Terry Turner, terry.turner@norfolk.gov.uk

Support the formation of the Diversity Council as a Group of The Library Association

In recognition of the fact that the issues of diversity are as relevant and important to the library community as they are to society at large, I call upon the Library Association to recommend to Council that the LA recognise the Diversity Council as a LA Group (DCG). This new Group should have the same status (capitation, Council members, etc.), as other LA groups.
